Introduction: 133rd Birth Anniversary of Architect of Constitution of India, Bodhisatv, Dr. Babasaheb Ambedkar was celebrated by N.S.S. Cell on 14th April, 2024 under the patronage of Late Dr. Chandansingh Rotele, Hon. Founder President and Dr. Kedarsingh Rotele, Hon. President, Orange City College of Social Work, Nagpur. During the program, Dr. Mahendrakumar Meshram, Officiating Principal in his presidential address discussed the relevance and significance of the historical speech in the current context. He viewed that the speech delivered by Dr. Babasaheb Ambedkar is undoubtedly a visionary document that not only underlines the privileges that the Constitution beholds but also the potent dangers. He said that unless the execution of the Constitution is made for the welfare of the state, regardless of special preference to any ideology, thus keeping the benefit of a layman at the top, the Constitution would continue to serve the purpose. However, no sooner than it falls prey to the vested interest of a few, than it shall lose its potential and uniqueness. He said that each and every institution is a miniature version of a welfare state, where the decision making and its execution has to be in a democratic process by keeping in view the welfare of each and every stakeholder, major or minor. He viewed that unless this democracy is kept intact, the institution cannot soar high in the sky of academic and administrative achievement. Keeping the rights of each and every stakeholder intact is as significant for a successful institution as it is for a developed nation.
